A Special Birthday for Rosa

Today was the day Rosa had ^{early being} eagerly been waiting for, her birthday! She was very happy but she was ^{She} also felt sad. ~~This~~ would be the first birthday that she would celebrate without all her family around her. The company that Rosa's father worked for had given him a wonderful ^{position} ~~promotion~~. But this meant that Rosa, her parents, and her little brother, Jose, had to move ^{together} to another state. Rosa liked her new home and friends. But, she really wanted to celebrate her birthday with her grandparents, aunts, uncles, and cousins all around her.

They had sent presents ^{Spent parents} But it wouldn't be the same if she couldn't thank them in person. They wouldn't be there to watch her blow out all the candles. And ^{were} ~~what~~ kind of a birthday would it be without listening to her grandparents' stories about growing up in Italy and Cuba? Also, four people could never sing as loudly ^{for} ~~or~~ joyfully as her whole family could sing together!

That night, Mama made Rosa's favorite meal. Afterwards, there was a beautiful cake. Mother, Father, and Jose ^{Sing} sang "Happy Birthday" while the eight candles glowed. Rosa made a wish, ^{take} ~~took~~ a deep breath, and blew out all the candles. "I know I ^{want} ~~won't~~ get what I wished for," she said to herself, "but I'm going to wish for it anyway."

Then ^{to} it was time for the presents. Rosa's father gave her the first present. It was a DVD. "I think we should play ⁱⁿ it right now before you open any more presents," ^{my} ~~her~~ father said. He put the DVD into the player suddenly there on the television screen was the rest of Rosa's family smiling and waving and wishing her a happy birthday. One by one, each person on the DVD asked Rosa to open the present they had sent. Her father put the DVD on pause while Rosa did this. Then they explained why they had chosen ^{the} gift ^{especially} for Rosa. After all the presents were unwrapped, her family sang some favorite songs and Rosa, her mother, father, and Jose joined in.

Then, Rosa's grandfather spoke to her. "Rosa, this is a new story, one you have never heard before. I am going to tell ^{you} to you as a special birthday gift. ^{Also} It ^{is} about my first birthday in this country when I was very lonely for my friends and family. It ^{was} about how I met your grandmother." When ^{you} Grandfather was finished, he and Grandmother blew Rosa a kiss and the DVD was finished.

Rosa felt wonderful. It was almost like having her family in the room with her. Rosa hugged her parents and her little brother. "I ^{don't} think I would get my wish but I did," she said. That night, when ^{day} Mama and Papa came to say goodnight to Rosa, they found her in bed, already asleep, with the DVD next to her. It had been the best birthday ever. (487 words)
